

Obtaining Articles from Your Database Search Using UC-eLinks

For print/e-journal access, Start@Biomed.

- a. From any web browser, enter
<http://www.library.ucla.edu/biomed>
- b. Click the Key Resources tab and select a database.
- c. Do a search in the selected database.

Looking for an item

1. Click the  icon. Note: In PubMed@UCLA, you will need to click the author name(s) link to see the icon.
2. Click the Get It Online From link.

If there is no Get It Online From link

3. If there is no Get It Online From link, check electronic and/or print availability of your title at UCLA by choosing the Check the UCLA Library Catalog option.
4. Click the ONLINE ACCESS link if present.

If there is no ONLINE ACCESS link

5. Note specific library, call number, and volumes owned.
  - Once you have the call number and citation, use the Biomedical Library stack directory (verso) to locate the print volume to photocopy.

If UC Los Angeles doesn't own the journal

5. If you see the message, Your search resulted in no hits, in the UCLA Library Catalog, move to the  window and click the Request this from another library link to initiate an interlibrary loan request.
6. Follow the instructions and complete all boxes* unless "optional."
  - * Your library account number is ten digits: nine digits from the face of your BruinCard/UCLA Healthcare card and the tenth from the back of the card (usually near the right side).
